

“One of the things that separates world-class wineries from the merely excellent is consistency across the entire range. That is exactly what readers can find at Calera. I can’t think of any of these wines I would not want to drink any day of the week. Simply put, Josh Jensen and his team at Calera have done a remarkable job with these new releases. Specifically, I was blown away by the sheer deliciousness of the entry level wines. Readers won’t go wrong with any of these wines. I can’t recommend Calera’s new releases highly enough.

“Mint, honey, chamomile and apricot are some of the signatures that emerge from Calera’s 2014 Viognier (Central Coast). Beautifully layered and waxy on the palate, but not at all heavy or cloying, the 2014 strikes a gorgeous balance in all of its elements. The 2014 is a real stand out, as well as a tremendous value.”
